Good Evening or Morning whatever the case maybe!

Please join us for our Friday night tasting on Friday, September 27th from 4-8 PM
Representing Owen Roe winery from St. Paul Oregon Garret Plocher we are featuring six new releases.

We watch all of this while Garret Plocher of ExCellars, the distribution arm of Owen Roe, explains how that wine will eventually find its way to a store shelf. Garret's job is distribution of the Owen Roe line of fine wines and he explains they do things differently than most wineries. While most wineries use third-party distributors, Owen Roe self-distributes their wines to stores, shops and restaurants in the local area to ensure that personal relationship and expertise about the product line is imparted to customers. He likes to pour the wines at shops to answer questions from customers and introduce the wine novices to great wines.

If David O'Reilly is not crushing grapes in Washington he may show up as well!!
We are going to have a sign-up sheet for a first class trip to go to Washington to visit the new winery of Owen Roe! More info to come soon!
