

The Tasting of a lifetime! Shea Vineyard is a gem in the Oregon Wine Industry! Tonight don't miss your chance to taste what six winemakers do with the fruit from Shea Vineyard! 2010 is an excellent vintage. Although the vintage yielded limited fruit because of a late harvest and, the birds tried to eat all the grapes! They were so good! These wines were all recently released and that is why I am doing this tasting now if I wait the 2010 Shea Vineyard wines will be sold out!

2010 St Innocent Shea Vineyard $43

Bright ruby-red. A highly perfumed bouquet evokes candied black raspberry, cherry, star anise and lavender. Juicy and precise in the mouth, offering intense red and dark berry preserve flavors and notes of candied flowers and licorice. Silky tannins add grip to the very long, sappy, focused finish. 93 Points Stephen Tanzer

2010 Winderlea Shea Vineyard $48

Bright ruby-red. Intense, spice-accented aromas of black raspberry, cola, anise and fresh rose. Offers an array of red and dark berry preserve flavors sharpened by blood orange and peppery spices. A deeper bitter chocolate nuance carries through the long, fruity, focused finish. 91 Points Stephen Tanzer

2010 Broadley Shea Vineyard $50

(made from a blend of Dijon 777 and Wadenswil clones; 25% new oak): Ruby-red. Cherry-vanilla, cola and lavender on the highly perfumed nose. Offers an array of dark fruit flavors and bright floral and spice accents that gain strength with air. Bright and focused on the finish, which features notes of allspice and star anise. 92 Points Stephen Tanzer

2010 Bergstrom Shea Vineyard $48.

Vivid ruby. Sexy, oak-spiced aromas of black raspberry, cherry and cola, with smoke and Asian spice accents building with air. Sappy and broad on entry, then tighter in the mid-palate, offering intense red and dark berry preserve flavors lifted by tangy acidity. Shows sneaky power on the smoky finish, leaving spice, vanilla and candied lavender notes behind. Give this youthful wine at least another couple years of bottle age. 93(+?) points Stephen Tanzer

2010 Penner Ash Shea Vineyards $58

Vivid ruby-red. Sexy, oak-spiced aromas of black raspberry, anise and potpourri. Supple, palate-staining red and dark berry flavors show very good intensity and focus, with a cherry-cola nuance adding interest. Rich, silky and seamless in texture, with subtle floral and Asian spice nuances coming up with air. Fine-grained tannins add shape to the very long, sweet, smoky finish, which features an exotic touch of lavender pastille. 93 Points Stephen Tanzer

2010 Shea Wine Cellars Estate Block 23 $56

(made entirely from the Pommard clone from a non-irrigated, 3.2-acre parcel): Vivid red. A sexy, heady bouquet evokes black raspberry and cherry compote, with Asian spice and sandalwood nuances gaining strength with air. The palate offers intense red berry and floral pastille flavors, along with spicecake and cola accents. Closes with impressive energy and sweetness, leaving an allspice note behind.
